INSTEAD of trying Ray Wright for the attempted hold-up of Miss Edna Allison, the County Attorney reduced the charge to simple assault. Arthur Rocco, the half-witted boy who was with Wright when the latter attempted Miss Allison, will be tried as his sanity.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR ARTHUR BROWN IS FOUND NOT GUILTY BY THE JURY

Arthur Brown's acquittal of the charge of adultery in the criminal division of the District court yesterday rings down the curtain on one of the most notorious and foully reeking scandals in the history of Utah. The case has been in the nostrils of the citizens for years. Many times his wife, Mrs. Isabelle Cameron Brown, has had Brown arrested on the charge of adultery with Mrs. Anna M. Bradley. The former Senator wavered between the two women, at one time his wife was after him in the courts and when he sought to go back to her and drop Mrs. Bradley, the latter, declaring him to be the father of her children, assaulted him. There have been many dramatic scenes in which the defendant in the above case and the two women mentioned have taken sensational parts. But it is all over now, the defendant is acquitted and is living with his wife.

On April 16, 1903, Brown was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Brown, charged with adultery; on April 25th he was bound over to the District court to stand trial; on October 17th, other indictments against him charging the same crime, were returned. On November 10th, on September 29th, Mrs. Bradley pleaded guilty to the crime of adultery with which she and the former Senator were charged; later another child was born to her and on December 4th Mrs. Bradley filed amended birth reports in the health office, in which she swore Arthur Brown to be the father of her children; her time of sentence was postponed from month to month pending the result of the case decided yesterday; the defendant, Brown, was brought to trial after repeated and untiring efforts to escape the ordeal by legal technicalities, and his acquittal is now considered to have been on purely technical grounds.

"Not guilty" was the verdict of the jury. The case was concluded at 2:30 o'clock and one hour later the jury had agreed upon the verdict given above. After the verdict had been read Judge Morse ordered that the bondsmen of the defendant, James Farrell and H. P. Henderson, $200 each, be released and the jurors were excused until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

BROWN DID NOT TESTIFY.

Contrary to expectation, the defendant did not take the stand in his own behalf, and only three more witnesses were examined yesterday. Thomas Hall and Detective George Raleigh both corroborated the evidence of the defense's witnesses. The day before on the point that a person on the sidewalk opposite the Independence rooming house could not, with the blind raised, as testified to by the State's witnesses, distinguish an occupant of the room in which the alleged offense was said to have been committed, Miss Swenson, a domestic employed in the rooming house, testified that the lace curtains in the room occupied by the defendant were heavy and overlapped. The defense rested its case at 10:45.

TALKS FOR AND AGAINST.

County Attorney Westervelt made the opening and closing arguments for the State. The opening argument for the defense was made by Attorney I. R. Rodgers and Judge W. H. King closed. The arguments on both sides were nothing more than a review of the evidence as given in the trial. The County Attorney argued that it was not necessary to offer direct evidence to convict in a case of this kind. He related the story of the State's witnesses, telling how they had followed Mrs. Bradley from her home to the Independence block;

LEPROSY STAMPED OUT AMONG UTAH HAWAIIANS

HARMONY IN HIGH FAVOR AMONG BIG UTAH REPUBLICANS

That the burial of the hatchet by contending factions of the Republican party is necessary to the continued success of the party in this State is recognized by all good Republicans. But how shall past differences be adjusted without loss of dignity or heartburnings on either side? How shall the State convention choose six delegates to the Chicago convention without reopening the wounds which have barely begun to heal over? In short, how can harmony and good feeling be re-established among the Republicans of Utah in order that the common enemy may not be able to profit by factional strife?

With the hope of securing valuable suggestions along this line The Tribune yesterday requested some of the active Republican workers to express briefly their views on the all important question, with particular reference to the coming State convention. Many of those whom it was desired to quote could not be reached, but the following expressions may be regarded as fairly representative:

H. G. McMillan—In my opinion the best thing to do is to bury the hatchet and all stand by and support the successful candidate, whoever they may be.

Attorney General M. A. Broden—I consider the stand taken by Senator Kearns very wise and timely. Now is the time to lay aside all bickerings and factional differences and put together as Republicans for the good of the State. Neither of the three members of Congress nor the avowed aspirants for Congressional or Senatorial honors should be made delegates to the national convention, and the party should be divided on a basis of men from men not identified with any faction—men who will stand straight for the Republican party and not for any personal ambition. We must get together and stay together. By so doing we are sure to win a great victory.

John E. Dooley—I want to see placed on the delegation to the national convention strong, capable men who will obtain the unanimous support of the Republicans of the State.

Judge Henry Van Pelt—Senator Kearns has certainly made a very wise move—one which should do much toward bringing harmony within the Republican ranks. The position of delegate to the national convention is one of honor and a great trust as well. As a position of honor it should be conferred on men of unimpaired character and high standing in the community. With these qualifications met, the particular persons we need is not a matter of great importance.

State Engineer A. F. Doremus—I am for harmonious action by the Republican party. Anything that will unite the party in this State will meet with my hearty approval. Factional differences should have no place in national affairs.

GREAT RECITAL BY PROF. CLARK

A record-breaking audience greeted Professor Clark last evening in his recital of "Henry V.," which is the last of his interpretative readings. "Henry V." is one of Shakespeare's earlier plays and is essentially a story. The play itself has never been a popular one and no cause it is epic in its nature and no stage settings however elaborate, can make it dramatic. It is simply a series of scenes in which the King is tested and tried under every conceivable environment, but the character is infinitely more beautiful than the most beautiful plot.

King Henry overcomes great difficulties and judged by his environment is spiritually and physically an ideal success. He is England's most real King and throughout exhibits his common sense in law, religion, diplomacy and even in love. In his early life he lived with and among the people and during his reign he ruled for the people as well as the nobles. The greatest possible temptations are brought to bear against his weakest points of character, but he triumphs in every case. He is a wise diplomat, a brave soldier and pre-eminently an honest man.

Mr. Clark won universal applause in his reading of Henry's speeches made to his soldiers when he urged them on to the final attack of Hal Fleur, and again when he prepares them for the decisive battle of Agincourt. In the scene between Henry and Princess Katherine he was really captivating in his love-making, while his mastery of French served him to good advantage in working out the finer and more delicate details of the picture.

In the afternoon Mr. Clark put his theory of reading into practice by giving a practical demonstration with third grade pupils, and those present must confess that he came out with flying colors. He illustrated the difference between word reading and thought expression. It is well and necessary that a child should know the dictionary meaning of the word, but to read well he must see behind the black jiggling letters on the page some picture with which he is entirely acquainted.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

THE announced determination of Senators Kearns and Smoot and Congressman Howell to withdraw their names from further consideration by Utah Republicans for delegate to the Chicago convention is a fruitful subject for discussion and comment. A prominent State official had this to say about the matter: "I feel that our representatives in Congress have taken the proper view of the question, and they are to be commended. Utah has honored them all, and it shows an admirable spirit in each of our representatives at Washington to decline to stir up party matters that they will not interfere in the ambition of either of them in the matter of delegating. The election of either of these three of the State's distinguished sons would add nothing to their honors, but it would add to the honor of the serving members of the party who would like to go to the national convention and represent Utah in a very excellent representative there, too."

Another Republican said: "By the action of Senators Kearns and Smoot and Congressman Howell the efforts to procure a greater harmony in local affairs are accentuated, and it is very agreeable indeed to know that these gentlemen have shown the proper regard for the party and held clear to the many other excellent gentlemen who would feel honored by being sent to Chicago."

Probably a dozen prominent Republicans are candidates for local office in the coming election. Among them are State Chairman Anderson, former Congressman Sutherland, Horace Blegen, J. C. Leeson, W. F. Snyder of Bickfield, C. E. Loos of Provo, Warden Arthur Pratt, and possibly Gov. Wells. John H. Smith of Salt Lake, Bishop H. H. Burrill, J. D. Murphy and C. E. Hollingsworth of Ogden.

It is given out that the first five named candidates are on a list known as the Sutherland-Anderson slate, and it is said that an earnest effort is being made to put it through the convention as agreed upon in this combination.

There is no organization being effected to break the slate, and it is freely predicted that if the convention does not agree the combination on the grounds that slates are not generally regarded as conducive to harmony that Sutherland, Anderson, Leeson, Snyder and Bullen will be the slate of the State's representation. There is absolutely no contest for alternate delegates, but it is agreed that there will be no difficulty in filling places.

Several Republicans, in the interest of harmony, favor the convention having a free hand in the selection of delegates. They say that if a slate is to be introduced there is no good reason for other officials at the convention. Some say the cut-and-dried plan will be rejected by the State convention delegates.

Speaking of the action of the Senators and Congressmen to withdraw their names from further consideration, an observant Republican said: "I think that other officials could practice a little modesty also, and not insist on going as delegates. The honors should be passed around."

Sheriff Emery is to have opposition in his candidacy for a second term. It is reported that Peter S. Coudie has been reported that he can be better look after Salt Lake county than with the empty attempt to secure the nomination, and quite a contest is promised.

Falling to persuade Republicans of the Third Judicial district to nominate the two of the four candidates for the Judgeship, the local Democrats have concluded to put a full ticket in the field.

Every Republican in the district is smiling at the transportation plan of the Democrats to capture two of the Judgeships with that little non-partisan sugar plum of theirs.

"There will be no further inquiry into the case of Senator Smoot this Congress," remarked a well-informed citizen. "That matter, I am fully convinced, has been agreed on and the further action of Congress will be guided in a great measure by the election returns from Utah next November. My judgment is that Utah as it did for Bryan in 1896. Stick a pin here and think about it."

There is a report out that Mayor Morris has not been announced, but it is made in the hands of department, except for cause. This is taken by some to mean that the Mayor and the Council have resolved to be as good and to work hereafter in harmony.

Others are looking for the Mayor's stand.
